About the University

Maharana Pratap University of Agriculture and Technology, Udaipur (MPUAT), the second Agricultural University of the state, (initially named as Agricultural University, Udaipur) came into existence on 1st November, 1999 by bifurcation of the Rajasthan Agricultural University, Bikaner. The jurisdiction of the university include constituent colleges,

Agricultural Research Stations (ARSs), Agricultural Research SubStations (ARSSs), Livestock Research Station (LRS), Dryland Farming Research Station (DFRS), and Krishi Vigyan Kendras (KVKs) spread over 7 districts of the south and south eastern part of the state of Rajasthan. These districts are Udaipur, Rajsamand, Dungarpur, Banswara, Chittorgarh, Bhilwara and Pratapgarh.

About the college

The College of Community and Applied Sciences, Udaipur (formerly known as College of Home Science, Udaipur) was established in the year 1966. It is one of the pioneer colleges of the country which has gained its reputed aura in more than five decades of its existence in Rajasthan state. Since its inception, the college has grown rapidly in all its three functions i.e. teaching, research and extension. Community Science is an interdisciplinary field of knowledge which focuses on strengthening family and community life. It prepares an individual to obtain recent scientific information for dealing with life situation and to cope up with everyday problems effectively by providing broad based culturally relevant knowledge. From the academic session 2017-18, the Faculty of Home Science has been renamed as the Faculty of Community Science.

Mission

Development of competence among students for effective role performance to meet the emerging challenges for better living and prepare them as professionals.

Academic programmes

The college offers two under graduate programmes and M.Sc and Ph.D in all the five departments as under
